GRAIN MIXING
The mixing of Canadian and United States grain by millers and exporters has for years been a sore point with western farmers. Despite numerous inquiries to prevent the practice allegations that it requires have been frequent. The justice is instructed to investigate its effect.

"Cases of the decrease in Canadian grain exports in recent years" is another subject for inquiry. Opponents of the wheat pools at one time attacked the wheat pools as a means of increasing the price of the grain. It was also charged the pools had helped to increase the price of the grain. The justice is instructed to investigate its effect.

The present stage of the wheat problem date back to 1929 when the three provincial wheat pools having grown into a national organization, found themselves in difficulties through a sharp drop in prices after the crop was harvested.

Streamlining French Style

If you think that America has gone ultra-streamline in its automobile models, you ought to see this. The well-to-do Frenchman with a flair for the extreme will drive something like this in the next year; probably the Peugeot, top bearing a marked resemblance to the newer type of airplane, or the Bugatti, below, featured by improved aerodynamic design. These pictures were taken at the 30th Annual Paris Motor Show.

The Revolution In The United States and the interest computed on the public securities held in the fund will be the working fund for disbursements.

It is estimated that by 1960—and possibly earlier—the collection of the share of national income allotted to the Social Security fund will be sufficient to buy in all the federal bonds outstanding; and that from an earlier date, probably 1950, the fund will be strong enough to take care of unemployment and disability and old age payments in addition to continuing to buy in the federal bonds.

This condition of the nation doing the saving for the individual is a new beacon light in world history. It recognizes the fact that poverty, helplessness and hopelessness, is a greater cost and loss to the nation even than war.

When the results attainable are considered, the percentage of the national income to be collected in reality small, and once the bookkeeping adjustments are made, nobody will be hurt financially. Production costs may be slightly increased, but this will be more than offset by the increase in buying power, as destructive poverty which has no buying power is wiped out from year to year.

Things will be done, seen, heard, and proved in the United States within the next fifteen years, which would have been considered wild, impossible dreams fifteen years ago.

It is well also to record the fact that these things have been made possible by the machine and electricity, by adding many hundredfold to the capacity of the individual working with his hands. The final effect of the Social Security Act is a farewell to poverty.

LEADERS FLEE MADRID WHEN CAPTURE NEAR

Madrid was left under command of a military governor charged to continue the bitter struggle against the insurgent army.

As the government leaders quit the capital, the rumble of heavy artillery echoed through the streets. The government forces fought to withstand the intensive Fascist drive.

With the capital apparently doomed, panic rode the streets. Fascist sympathizers, in belated effort to avert disaster, broke out within Madrid even before the arrival of the dreaded Moor.

Terrific encounters ensued as the city as the retreating government militia, fighting their long-cherished "last ditch" stand in the southern suburbs, fell back against the Manzanares river—the southern rim of Madrid proper—and dynamited the Toledo and Madrid bridges.

DIZZYING RAIN
In the dizzying rain of the grey morning, long lines of red crosses from the first firing stations near the battlefield to hospitals in the city itself. Then back again.

Hundreds of wounded—military and civilian—were being taken to the hospitals, even girls who had joined in the fighting, were being taken back from the firing-lines.

Their faces, pale with pain, told only too clearly the horror of the war. They shook heads but expressed no protest.

THOSE MOORS
"The Moors?" they whispered. Their eyes were turned to the hills.

Wave after wave, the swarthy, fierce, topped invaders smashed through the trenches, on to the capital's outskirts at dawn.

A single daring band of Moors, forced by the government in a mad dash to capture the government-held Toledo, during recent weeks of war, they raced out against the Moors.

Immediately they were disarmed and sent to the Moors. The government forces blew up the bridge over the Manzanares river, and to the capital side of the river. Over the bridge they had to go against the insurgent onslaught.

Artillery dined incessantly. The cries of the Moors, mostly from the hills, were heard in the city. The Moors were heard in the city. The Moors were heard in the city.

VANCOUVER, Nov. 7.—The court house at Vancouver has had some "unfinished business" on its hands for 24 years, it was reported recently when the granite lions guarding the portals of the city's hall of justice were closed by a fire.

The lions, which were carved by the famous sculptor, John B. Steward, were left unfinished when the court house was built in 1912.

The lions were left unfinished because the court house was not completed at the time they were carved. The lions were left unfinished because the court house was not completed at the time they were carved.

DOUGLAS ASSAILS CLARKE'S ACTION ON RELIEF GRANT

and 1931 during my regime as mayor when the question came up for confining the homes of those who were in arrears from non-payment of taxes, I issued instructions from that so long as the depression continued the homes of no citizen was to be confiscated because of his inability to meet his tax arrears.

Despite frigid temperature attendance at Friday's campaign meetings at the Eastwood and Highlands schools and the Francis Hall, North Edmonton, was comparatively good.

Candidate agencies were closely followed and very little backbiting occurred.

F. J. Speed, Independent majority candidate: Mr. Speed declared that the financial straits had not got the city into the mess in which it now found itself. "There is a cure to humanity," he said. He charged that the city power plant was inadequate.

R. E. Fosse, Independent majority candidate: He stressed the fact that he was the only construction man who had contested the aldermanic field since 1900. Also, he was the only retiring alderman seeking the majority chair. He was strongly in favor of instituting a personal property tax so that the sources of wealth could be taxed.

Archibald Richardson, United People's League, School Board candidate: His party, he said, has fine brains as any other party. They were attempting to weld the working forces together. He was strongly supporting a platform which he fully believed was practical.

Herbert J. Pollard, United People's League, aldermanic candidate: In this campaign, he said, a variety of speeches were being delivered that meant only one thing, which was, prosperity is just around the corner. He would suspend sinking fund payments for three years.

D. K. Kossel, Independent, aldermanic candidate: Mr. Kossel expressed his intention of granting a reduced interest rate. He said it was far better to look more than one year ahead. He said it was easy to talk of obtaining more money from various governments, but it was not difficult to obtain it as both provincial and Dominion governments had considerable powers of their own.

James H. Ogilvie, Citizens' Committee, aldermanic: He stated that a reduction in interest on bonded indebtedness would be pressed for. He urged the aldermanic candidates to bondholders regarding interest reduction. In dealing with the unemployment question, he advocated appointment of a re-employment officer, who would aid in rehabilitating the unemployed.

HOUSING PLAN

Alfred J. McCreath, Citizens' Committee, aldermanic: He reviewed the efforts he had made in contacting the provincial government regarding tax arrears. He favored using housing legislation and declared that 50 per cent. of Edmonton's property was due for renovation.

F. Armour Ford, Citizens' Committee, school board: He dealt with his activities on the city council and the efforts he had made in contacting the provincial government regarding tax arrears. He favored using housing legislation and declared that 50 per cent. of Edmonton's property was due for renovation.

J. W. Findlay, United People's League, aldermanic candidate: He favored a reconstruction of the taxation system. He contended that taxes should be collected largely from the sources of income. Also he favored suspension of the sinking fund for certain purposes.

Hugh Critchlow, United People's League, school board: He favored extension of the free educational facilities to include school books or supplies, even through high school. He urged the aldermanic candidates to consider the medical welfare of the students.

NOTHING NEW

J. W. Adair, Independent, aldermanic: He contended that there was nothing new in the battle to reduce taxes. Such a campaign had been going on for years. Servicing the $1,000,000 paid by Edmonton in interest charges each year, he said, was not new.

C. M. Kelly, Independent, aldermanic: He urged the abolition of the contract system.

Ald. J. W. Fry, Citizens' Committee: Mr. Fry dealt with the Calgary Power company deal and said if recommendations of the city commissioners had been accepted that city today would have a working agreement with the Calgary Power company.

Mrs. W. J. Ross, Citizens' Committee, school board: She also spoke on behalf of her colleague, F. C. Casselman. She dealt with her qualifications for the work and with the many serious home fires by the school board to the people.

LOWER TAXATION

H. B. Anley, United People's League, aldermanic: Dealing with taxation, Mr. Anley stated that taxes on home property had gone beyond the limit of the home owner to pay. He proposed a 25 per cent. on the first $1,500 of assessment, with the rate set by the 1927 committee to apply to any valuation above this.

The candidate also advocated a deeply graded income tax on all incomes over $2,000 a year. Doubting whether the provincial government would proclaim the maximum three per cent interest set for Edmonton alone, and declaring that taxpayers were in need of immediate relief from the taxation burden, Mr. Anley proposed suspension of sinking fund payments for a three-year period.

William Bullock, Social Credit, aldermanic: He advocated a work-alike program for those now out of employment, and urged that voters should elect men who would co-operate with the provincial government in this end.

FREE BOOKS

Adam Bruce, Social Credit, school board: Mr. Bruce said the plan to issue school children free text books and supplies, and a lower standard of maintenance.

E. E. Howard, Civic Youth Association, aldermanic: Mr. Howard promised to co-operate with the provincial government if Mayor Clarke. He opposed a new agreement with the Calgary Power Co.

The model plane has a span of seven feet.

Camel hair brushes are made from hair from the tails of Russian squirrels.

Credit, school board: She reviewed her business experience and activities in public affairs and asked voters to return the Social Credit slate.

GOOD RECORD

George O'Leary, Independent, endorsed by the C. V. A. aldermanic: This candidate told his audience that he had had a good record as a police officer for 23 years and his ambition is to leave the same record on city council.

Nice Sheppard, Social Credit, aldermanic: Mr. Sheppard appealed for support on his past record as an alderman.

Dan Powers, Social Credit, aldermanic: He declared that he had been successful in his trade as a railwayman, and was prepared to give citizens service. He advocated city control of the power plant.

Hugh J. Macdonald, Citizens' Committee, aldermanic: Ald. Macdonald said that if re-elected he would give strong support to the housing problem, believing that would give employment to a great number of men.

SCORES FACTS

James East, United People's League, aldermanic: This aldermanic candidate declared that he had been successful in his trade as a railwayman, and was prepared to give citizens service. He advocated city control of the power plant.

Alison, Citizens' Committee, aldermanic: The candidate asked voters to mark their ballots for contestants on the C. V. ticket.

MEN DUCK FOR COVER IN WAR OF HOT WORDS

Ladies Take Charge At Beverly Meeting as Resignations Fly

BEVERLY, Nov. 7.—It proved to be very decidedly "Ladies' Night" at the special meeting of the Beverly Property Owners' Association, held Friday night in the Presbyterian church.

Meeting had been called to discuss the possibility of reopening the question of a power line from 50 street in Edmonton to the Beverly mine, which was given a 12-month hold at a recent meeting of electors.

RENEW EFFORT

If E. I. Clarke, president of the Mining Company, would agree to allow residents near the mine to secure power and lights through his transformer, the association decided it would make every endeavor to have the matter brought before the electors again in hopes of securing permission from the local council for either Mr. Clarke or the City of Edmonton to build the necessary line.

Following the power line discussion the question of whether or not to request the appointment of an administrator was brought up and a sharp cleavage in the previous union cord between the sexes became evident.

TAKE IT ON ODDITY

The gentlemen were nearly all for electing the matter on account of the small attendance but they were out-voted by the ladies who hoped that order in the affairs of the town might be secured.

Mr. Kryskow, prominent member of the executive, expressed his displeasure by resigning. This started a small avalanche of resignations all among the supposedly strong men, who upon this occasion did not appear able to take it. L. B. Bunt, vice-president, who had been in the chair.

When all the disgruntled gentlemen had walked out, the chair was taken by Mrs. A. Gurnette, also an executive member, who carried on for the remainder of the meeting.

MUFF IS STAGING REAL COMEBACK

British United Press

PARIS, Nov. 7.—Muffs are again in fashion, and the Paris houses are showing a large variety for the winter styles.

Some are tiny little affairs, whereas others are large and practical, serving as handbags as well as muffs.

Velvet will be a popular fabric for muffs, but they will be trimmed with silver fox and worn with velvet afternoon coats trimmed with the same.

Furs, however, will be used for the most part for the new muffs, with ermine, mink and chinchilla in the lead. Some of the fox muffs will show in front the fox's head.

Evening muffs are of ermine, but some are of transparent starched cloth with pastel-colored flowers, and others are of transparent cellophane.

Ancestors of the present-day otch had more than two toes. But too many toes are a hindrance to swift running, so the useless numbers gradually disappeared. Now the otch has a foot that is designed for both speed and power.

"When a young man tightens his belt two or three holes, rolls up his sleeves and goes right ahead saying nothing, but saving word, he's got Depression and whatever you like to call it licked. It's the same with nations—especially young nations like Canada."

Mr. Picobac of Essex Centre pressed the fragrant glow of his pipe with a case-hardened thumb.

"I said it in 1932 and I say it again. CONFIDENCE! Confidence is half the battle. And perspiration is the other half. Look at mining . . . look at lumbering . . . look at manufacturing . . . look at motor cars and gasoline sales. Look at the tourist traffic. I read in the papers that merchants are selling more goods. Why, Canada's on the way. Canada's on the hum!"

As if to illustrate the booming of Canadian industry, the oracle of sunny Southern Ontario's Burley tobacco belt exhaled clouds of fragrant smoke from his Picobac-filled pipe.

"Eh, boy," sighed he, relaxing, "it's a mild . . . cool . . . sweet smoke, this Picobac. Canadians should count it one of their blessings."

Picobac is the pick of Canada's Burley crop, matured to mellow perfection by three years in the wood. On sale in Canada wherever tobacco is sold. Try it.

"IT DOES TASTE GOOD IN A PIPE!"

Joan Crawford In Title Role Capitol Show

Five distinguished actors of noteworthy contrasting characteristics, four of them as lovers, were required to impersonate the men who figured in the life of glamorous Peggy O'Sullivan in "The Gorgeous Hussy," which opens an engagement of three days at the Capitol theatre Saturday.

Joan Crawford, in the title role of this historical romance from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, portrays the lovely daughter of a Washington tavern keeper during the American civil war. A new partner man was her friend and loyal aide.

FINE IMPERSONATION
President Jackson is impersonated by Earl Carroll, Secretary of War, eventually married her, but her first love was to "Babe" Timberlake, the gay young naval officer who married her and sailed away to be killed. John Randolph of Virginia loved her from childhood but lost her. A new partner man was her friend and loyal aide.

TRAGIC SENATOR
Johnny Douglas portrays the tragic senator from Virginia, John Randolph, who loved the girl more deeply than all the others, yet lost her when she remained true to his own ideal.

James Stewart appears as the Capitol Hill newspaper editor, who loved with Peggy O'Sullivan himself, but maintaining a constant fight long after he knew the futility of his emotion.

"The Gorgeous Hussy" is the first picture to provide a regular series of four romantic lead-ins. As the tavern-keeper's daughter, Miss Crawford makes good of all of them.

"The Holy Terror"
Lois Day has been assigned to the romantic lead opposite Anthony Martin in "The Holy Terror," shortly to go to production. Joan Davis and Joe Lewis also have been given roles.

Above is Joan Crawford who comes back to the screen of the Capitol theatre in "The Gorgeous Hussy," which opens today for a three-day run.

SMALL TOWN RADIO STARS GIRL RETURNS AT DREAMLAND

Half a million film fans can't be wrong. And that's why Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer teamed Janet Gaynor and Robert Taylor in the romantic leads of "Small Town Girl," which opens Monday at the Princess theatre.

More than a half-million fans have suggested that Taylor appear opposite his Gaynor again in "Society Doctor," now made his first great success in a picture.

Since the flood of letters first began—and the idea seemed to strike almost simultaneously in a dozen sections of the country—the studio had been looking for a suitable vehicle. The search ended when Ben Aronson's new novel made its appearance. It was considered ideal for the photoplay debut of the two young favorites as a team.

New Romantic Team Appears Rialto Screen

Constance Bennett and Douglas Montgomery has every reason to say "Isn't it lovely day to be out in the rain?" during the making of the 10th picture, "Everything Is Thunder," at the Rialto theatre today, Monday and Tuesday.

Rough and Anna, the hero and heroine of Jocelyn Lee Hardy's thrilling best-seller, meet in the rain. He is an English officer making a desperate attempt to escape from a German prison camp. She is befriending him. The heavy rain dashes back from the pavement, beats through umbrellas, blows against their soaked clothes.

PROOF OF IMITATION
No matter how romantic you may feel about rain from the heavens, no one can shakeproof over the downpour. With scenes from movie studio rain pipes, unless it is the studio rainmaker who has every reason to be proud of his imitation.

Studio rainmakers are trouble-some affairs. It may seem silly to create rain indoors, when there seems to be such an abundance of the stuff outside. But film-makers don't depend on the vagaries of the weather men who are so concerned about production schedules as about pictures. When studio rain pipes, and not sun shines its brightest, and vice versa.

COMPLICATED SYSTEMS
Having produced the rain, getting rid of it presents further problems, which are solved by means of complicated systems of drainage. Sharing "Everything Is Thunder" in the Rialto theatre today, Monday and Tuesday, are "Girls' Dormitory," Twentieth Century-Fox production opening next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Empress starring Simona.

Simona Simon, the brilliant French star, making her American debut with Herbert Marshall and Herbert Marshall.

Ordinarily this being called "girl values" is a term used to indicate the girl's point of view. In "Girls' Dormitory," where it is a term used to indicate the girl's point of view.

ADDED FEATURE
Four original cowboy songs are featured in "Guns and Guitars," Republic's thrilling musical western picture which brings Gene Autry and Smiley Burnette to the Rialto on the same bill. Two of them were composed by the two singing cowboy stars.

"Ride 'Em, Cowboy!" is an original by Burnette while "The Cowboy Medicine Show" was co-authored by the two stars.

The theme song, "Guns and Guitars," was composed by Republic's song writer, Oliver Drake. Drake also collaborated with Music Director Harry Gray on "Dreams of the Night."

"Texas in the early cowboy picture is the site of this thrilling Gene Autry western, in which continual battles rage over the rights of unscrupulous cattle buyers to run herds of fever-stricken cattle across quarantined lands.

NEW STAR FOR EMPRESS SHOW

An experiment in "girl values" for a straight dramatic production, is seen in "Girls' Dormitory," Twentieth Century-Fox production opening next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Empress starring Simona.

Dick Powell Is Heard In Stage Struck

At last, we hear, a musical film production has been made in which such musical numbers are introduced without "stepping the plot."

"Stage Struck," which comes to the Strand theatre today is the picture and first musical, producers and developers of musical pictures and first musical, producers and developers of musical pictures.

Packed with catchy music and numbers by E. Y. Harburg and Harold Arlen and the Yacht Club Boys, it nevertheless marches through its story without the least sense of halting.

INTEGRAL PARTS
This is because the musical numbers are not extraneous performance dragged into the story, but integral parts of the plot itself. Instead of clogging the action they forward it.

LOSERS GET PROVE FIRE AND PHONE INSURANCE

500 Agents Will Suffer Loss But Alberta Profits

"The government has decided to cancel all its present policies and place its entire fire insurance on government property and the Alberta Government, telephone, with funds of England, France, Russia, China, and other countries, and the minister of finance and industry, announced on Saturday.

"Careful investigation and survey of government insurance has established the fact that a tremendous loss to the taxpayers will result," declared Mr. Manning.

The schedule of fire insurance being adopted by the government, is based on coverage for the remaining five months of the current fiscal year and for the three years commencing on April 1, 1937.

Part of the insurance now carried in annual and the rest triennial, with the latter class holding the greater portion.

BIG SAVING

The Minister announced that the new schedule shows net possible saving to the province of more than $100,000, with an average annual saving of $50,000.

Under the new arrangement, the province assumes the responsibility for fire losses to the extent of 90 per cent on the fire losses suffered on each individual property, and the remainder is paid by the government.

Part of the insurance now carried in annual and the rest triennial, with the latter class holding the greater portion.

BY CANCELLATION

Against this saving there stands a loss through cancellation of policies totalling $130,000 and a reserve to cover the government's maximum responsibility under the plan of 10 per cent on individual property losses, of $25,000, making a total of $155,000.

TAXPAYERS TO DEMAND PLEDGE OF CANDIDATES

Must Not Support Tax On Property in Excess of 50 Mills

Candidates in the municipal election will have to pledge that they will not support at any time during their term of office a tax on real property in excess of 50 mills on present assessment if they are to secure the votes of members of the Taxpayers' Association of Edmonton.

They will also be asked to subscribe to a pledge to use all legitimate means to prevent any attempt to raise the rate of the city's property tax to more than 50 mills.

A third pledge to support all amendments to the city's charter necessary to enable the city to spread taxation equitably over all property in the city, was presented in a questionnaire sent by the Taxpayers' Association of Edmonton.

A large number of candidates have already pledged acceptance of the pledges asked for, it is stated.

LOOKING THEM OVER

By JACK KELLY
Amateur Teams With Professional Assignments Source of Shamateurism

WITH the whole question of amateurism and its devious devices due to come on the carpet at the Regina meeting of the A.A.U. of C. the current trend in the United States rates more than passing interest. The majority of American athletes don't know what an amateur card is, although there is unquestionably such a thing as amateur standing. It is not however a constant source of trouble as in Canada, largely because the country's three major games—football, baseball and basketball have not been tied up with the bothersome Olympic question.

In college football a sensational change of attitude is taking place. Present indications are that before long a number of colleges will come right out in the open and frankly admit that their gridiron teams are professional athletes... or professional athletes.

Yale took a remarkable step along this line when it signed away the exclusive right to broadcast its home games for a neat piece of cash. Formerly any broadcasting system that cared to take the trouble was permitted to report the game over the air. Then take the case of the University of Pittsburgh. It has yearly payments of $200,000 to meet on its stadium and its football team must produce that amount of profit. To make that much money the team has to play a terrific schedule of games—and win the most of them. If such a squad can be assembled and amateur regulations carefully observed, it is a feat that makes the building of the pyramids look like child's play.

Pity the Poor Athlete
IN ROUND figures, the University of Pittsburgh football directorate is faced with the problem of making over a quarter of a million dollars annually. That is big business. Whether or not the players are paid, the fact remains that this is professional sport. The players are not on the grid for exercise and fun. It is a deadly serious business with them. On their ability to win and thereby provide proceeds to a large extent the financial solvency of their alma mater.

If the players don't get paid at least enough to cover their college costs in return for the months of night training and huffing they go through to give Pittsburgh a magnificent stadium and front page publicity—then they ought to at least get marbled statues of themselves erected around the campus.

Every time you take a dive into the problem of amateurism you come up with the conviction that somewhere or other there is something radically wrong. The theory of amateurism—sport for sport's sake—is basically sound and there is unquestionably a place for it. However all the trouble develops from the fact that mighty few fans will pay to see such sports. They demand keener competition with them. On their ability to win and thereby provide proceeds to a large extent the financial solvency of their alma mater.

Then these amateurs find themselves faced with the problem of getting suitable playing facilities—maria, stadia or arenas. With no help forthcoming from the government—the governments—amateur organizations try to build their own plants and they are immediately entangled in professionalism whether they like it or not.

Hockey Is Case In Point
CANADIAN hockey is a case in point. In the west, with its widely scattered population, a terrific amount of travelling is imperative if an inter-city schedule is to be offered the fans. From Winnipeg to the Pacific coast there is not a city that can produce a four-team senior amateur league that will draw enough fans to pay its overhead. The professional playdays likewise require a terrific travelling cost. In addition this constant travelling, almost professional in its extent, is something that few players can afford. It means the loss of days of work each week on the average for the season. It may be fair to expect a player to give his services free, but you can hardly expect him to pay out of his own slender income for the privilege of playing an amateur game.

From a business standpoint there is no solution that will permit hockey to be continued on its present scale except the widening of the amateur status as planned by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

Italian Wins Royal White Weaver Draws With John Demchuk

After Elimination
BY JACK "RED" BEANS

Jack Jackson, forming an alliance with Martonio Angelo, surprised nearly everyone and lasted for the main bout in Mike Cutcher's "wrestle rally" at the Memorial Hall last night.

The alliance between Jackson and Angelo proved a winning one for the burly grapplers. In turn they eliminated first Mickey McGuire, second, Johnny Demchuk and third Chuck Weaver, ending up in the final bout, which Jackson lost to Angelo in two straight falls.

NEW ARRANGEMENTS LAST NIGHTS ROYAL
The windup in last night's wrestle royal, after three grapplers had been eliminated, was changed from previous bouts. Instead of having only one final bout, there were two, one in which the second and third eliminated grapplers contested, and the final in which the last two standing contestants went to work.

It was in the best-of-two-fall bout between Jackson and Angelo that the alliance between the two grapplers was clearly shown. Jackson, who was the underdog, won the first fall by a technical knockout. Angelo, who was the favorite, won the second fall by a technical knockout.

PACKED THE PUNCH
It was in the first few minutes of the "royal" that really counted. Jackson, who was the underdog, won the first fall by a technical knockout. Angelo, who was the favorite, won the second fall by a technical knockout.

Canadian Team Third In International Military Jumping

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Guiding the advantage built up the first two nights with a perfect performance, the French team last night won the first major international military jumping event at the National horse show, the trophy presented by President Arturo Alessandri of Chile—before a capacity crowd of more than 12,000 at Madison Square Garden.

The United States finished second and Canada third.

Led by Capt. Pierre Clave, the three French officers finished the three-nights competition with a low aggregate of 19½ faults.

ALSO FAULTLESS

The United States officers, who were last year, also gave a faultless exhibition in the final stage but the 21 faults piled up in the first two nights left them trailing the Frenchmen by four faults.

In third place, the Canadian team had a total of 24½ faults. Then came the Irish Free team with 26 faults, Sweden with 41 and Great Britain with 42.

In addition to the French and United States, the Canadians, Swedes and Irish gave perfect exhibitions in the final test, which required these officers to take the obstacles in sequence.

ELECTED TO FLIP

Electing to flip for the night's ribbon rather than jump, the Canadians won the test and officially awarded first place, which was the final test only.

It was a fine performance by Captain Stuart Mack, Lieut. Douglas Clifton and Lieut. Marshall Clark. The Canadian officers also qualified four horses in the showman's challenge. Cup competition in the final stage of which will be reached tonight.

The Canadian team picked up a ribbon in the racket, an event which asked the 12 survivors of an elimination to take eight jumps of five feet each. Mercurio Smith, Jr., of Danville, Conn., won the event but Major H. S. Timmis was runner-up with Leda, his new event-ranger horse after a jump-off.

The club, formerly owned by William Dewar, is said to be indebted $20,000 to the league. Dewar Friday announced he had raised $10,000 to meet obligations and asked the N.H.L. officials to change their decision to allow the change.

Frank Calder, N.H.L. president, arrived in Toronto last night to handle the league's side of the case.

Horner And New Mate

Goal-seeking pucksters take notice. This is the pair of huskies who will guard the blue line for Toronto Maple Leafs this day, and as you can see they aren't waiting for you to arrive—they're coming out to meet you. On the right is our old friend "Red" Horner, all the body-knocking and rumble for his good name as he is now, sidekick Jimmy Fowler. Fowler is quite prepared to hand out lumps on his own account, so don't take any chances down his side of the ice. You're likely to run into a Horner-Fowler sandwich.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD ...THE STARS...

ALTHOUGH THERE ARE MILLIONS OF STARS IN THE UNIVERSE, OUR EARTH DEPENDS UPON A CERTAIN ONE FOR ITS VERY EXISTENCE/ THIS STAR IS THE SUN!

THE SUN APPEARS VERY LARGE TO US, BUT IT REALLY IS ONE OF THE SMALLEST STARS/ ITS BRIGHTNESS IS DUE TO ITS COMPARATIVE CLOSENESS TO US, BEING ONLY 92 MILLION MILES AWAY, WHILE THE NEXT NEAREST STAR IS 26 TRILLION MILES DISTANT.

MOST MEN OF TODAY HAVE LITTLE TIME FOR STAR GAZING/ THE ANCIENTS, HOWEVER, STUDIED THE STARS WHILE TENDING THEIR FLOCKS AT NIGHT, AND MANY OF THEM THEY NAMED FOR HEROES OF THEIR TIME.

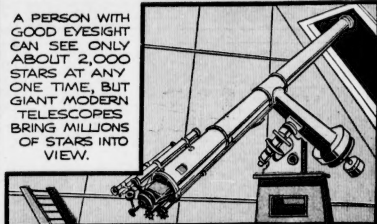

UNTIL ABOUT 1543, IT WAS BELIEVED THAT THE EARTH WAS THE CENTER OF THE UNIVERSE/ THEN COPERNICUS, A POLISH ASTRONOMER, POINTED OUT THAT THE EARTH WAS TRAVELING AROUND THE SUN.

THE SPINNING OF THE EARTH ON ITS AXIS, AS IT TRAVELS AROUND THE SUN, CAUSES THE SUN AND OTHER STARS TO "RISE AND SET" AT OUR HORIZON.

TODAY, WE KNOW THE STARS TO BE TREMENDOUSLY HOT, GASEOUS BODIES, MADE UP OF THE SAME ELEMENTS THAT COMPOSE OUR OWN EARTH.

A PERSON WITH GOOD EYESIGHT CAN SEE ONLY ABOUT 2,000 STARS AT ANY ONE TIME, BUT GIANT MODERN TELESCOPES BRING MILLIONS OF STARS INTO VIEW.
